Collector(s):

- Niels Fock
- Eva Krener

Extent and scope:

The materials in this collection are the result of research on adaptation to the physical and political environment of the indigenous Cañari of Juncal, Ecuador, as well as their concept of the world. Anthropologists Niels Fock and Eva Krener did this research from September 1973 to August 1974, and from August 1977 to January 1978. Their work was made possible with the financial support of the Government Council of Humanist Studies and the University of Copenhagen. A representative sample of the material culture of the indigenous Cañarís, such as traditional costumes and utility items, has been deposited with the Ethnographic Collection of the National Museum of Denmark. In 1954 Niels Fock conducted an anthropological study on the indigenous Waiwai in British Guiana and in 1958 and 1961 on the indigenous Mataco in Argentina.

The collection as of the writing of this finding aid has

- 805 TIFF images containing scans of black and white (527) and color (278) photographs
- 35 JPG images of open-reel tapes and audio cassettes
- 17 WAV audio files totaling nearly 14 hours digitized from 7 open-reel tapes and 5 audio cassettes.

- 8 PDF documents containing scanned or born-digital copies of books and articles

Access and use conditions:

All materials in this collection are public access subject only to AILLA's general conditions of use.

Processing note:

AILLA staff renamed files to replace spaces in file names with underscores, as spaces are not permitted by the repository's software. PDF documents were migrated to the archival PDF/A format. The PDF file containing the Danish version of Juncal was created by concatenating and rotating single-page scans apparently made for the purposes of translating the text, as no pages containing only images are included. Some photographs were excluded. Open-reel tapes were digitized by Digitation Services at the Perry Castañeda Library at the University of Texas and audio cassettes were digitized in AILLA's lab. One audio file was found to contain a portion of copyrighted music. The copyrighted music was removed and two files (one preceding and one following the music) were created.

The preservation of this collection was supported by the grant PD-260978 Archiving Significant Collections of Endangered Languages: Two Multilingual Regions of Northwest South America from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Any views, findings, conclusions, or recommendations expressed herein do not necessarily represent those of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Accruals:

No further accruals are expected.

Related collections:

Some of the photographs in this collection, as well as other photographs by Fock and Krener, may be found in the digital collections of the Danish National Museum (<https://samlinger.natmus.dk/>). In Danish. The Danish National Museum also holds a small physical collection of Cañari artifacts (chiefly clothing and implements) they collected.

Materials related to Niels Fock's 1950s research in British Guiana can be found in the Waiwai Collection of Niels Fock at AILLA (ailla:124389).
